To Whom It May Concern:

Cooper Sheridan is an exemplary student, who is motivated by the arts and academia. In his courses, he stands out from his peers by demonstrating a higher level of creative thinking and drive. I have had the pleasure to work with Cooper over the past two years, and he has always shown the qualities of an exemplary problem solver. Cooper has taken graphic design 1 & II with me; he considers the projects I have given him with great thought, takes a new and creative approach, and consistently goes above and beyond the highest expectations set. In my experiences with Cooper, I found him to be self-motivated, hardworking, and exceedingly dependable. These qualities are very evident in his school work and activities.

Cooper's eye for detail is rare among peers his age, and stands out from most students. He thinks critically, and applies past knowledge in order to complete his work. He consistently surprised me with his finished works- I truly hope he integrates graphic arts into his future career.

With much to offer, Cooper will bring great imagination and originality to any school program. Cooper stands out among his peers through his strong sense of self and his creative problem solving skills. His maturity and focus is impressive and quite rare for a student his age. Cooper's considerate personality and academic drive will guarantee his success in any program.

I hope you will consider Cooper's application favorably and give him the opportunity to prove his potential. If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,
Ms. Amanda Mercadante Graphic Design Teacher
